

ORIGINAL FIELDS CONCEPT ART

CREATE FOR QUEST LOOP

Make a short film people would choose to watch.

A character worth following. A choice with consequences. A film that works for someone who has never heard of Quest Loop.

Quest Loop is an early web app for people living with Type 2 diabetes. We are exploring how short stories can make reflection more inviting. The connection to health can be direct, quiet or almost invisible.

We are exploring paid commissions for original shorts and licenses for finished films. Scope, rights and payment are agreed project by project.

Make us care what happens next.

Genre and format are open. Give us a specific world and a human reason to stay in it.

ORIGINAL FICTIONAL CONCEPT STILL

01

A desire under pressure

A character wants something. An obstacle changes the situation. A decision carries a cost.

03

A world we can feel

Use performance, image, sound, language and place to carry meaning. Bring cultural collaborators in early.

02

A relationship that matters

Let people affect one another. A life is larger than a diagnosis, and a story can be too.

04

An ending that earns its lift

One honest shift is enough. Leave room for the viewer to interpret, question or simply enjoy it.

Bring your idea.

Choose an original commission, a finished-film license, a creative-team partnership or another proposal. For a first inquiry, share the world, the main character and the choice at the heart of the film. A portfolio or viewing link helps.

What a collaboration needs

A clear agreement. Before production or licensing, agree scope, payment, term, territory, exclusivity, credits and permitted uses. Clear footage, music, voices, likenesses and any generated material. AI-training permission must be addressed explicitly.

A thoughtful review. Characters deserve dignity. Avoid shame, miracle claims and medical instruction disguised as dialogue. Flag concrete medical statements for review; invite cultural collaborators while they can still shape the work.

A private viewer. Creators work from broad human themes and approved narrative signals. They never receive patient records or identifiable health information.

An honest stage of development. Quest Loop is an early preview. A wider film library and recommendation model are still being developed. This invitation does not promise a commission or a clinical outcome.

Tell us what you would make.
